07.12.2009 10:07 (GMT+01:00)

Telenor Broadcast Holding (TBH) AS, has signed an agreement in cooperation with the firm Unicus. Unicus AS is a newly established consulting company who focuses on the positive characteristics of autism.

The company is a niche player in the industry, providing services for testing of software within different market conditions. Unicus focuses on each particular individuals strengths and interests.

Unique specialists

What is different about Unicus is that their consultants are people with Asperger syndrome. These are people Unicus believe have unique characteristics that will benefit the customer. Qualities such as detailed orientation, accuracy, and a structured/systematic approach, are factors that are highly demanded in today's market. Unicus focuses on opportunities rather than restrictions, and looks to the individual.

TBH cooperation with Unicus focuses primarily on the testing of IS systems. Unicus staff will sit at Fornebu, in zone M5 and will be led by IS Test & Deployment, Eva Sjøstrand. Training within testing of tools, procedures and IBS will be given by different people within the IS department.

A fruitful partnership

"When we were contacted by Unicus, we immediately saw this as an interesting opportunity. We see this as a win-win situation for TBH AS, the employees of Unicus and our community as a whole. Finding skilled test resources is difficult, and we have great hopes that this will be a fruitful cooperation for both parts. We look forward to working with Unicus, and wish everyone involved the best of luck," says Trond Ove Breivik, CIO, Telenor Broadcast.
